

Caroline Ward, Leadership and Coaching (Australia)

Expert in helping people realize their potential and their dreams. She has worked for the past thirty years with individuals, teams, organizations, communities and countries, helping them to discover their dreams and learn how to make them realities.

Caroline has been invited to more than 60 countries to speak about and lead such programs. Her personal love is working as a thinking partner and coach with individuals of influence who are called to have a transformational impact on the world. She naturally carries a deep understanding of transition and transformation, being able to pinpoint specifics within our thinking, believing and being that either liberate us and others, moving us forward; or those that keep us stuck and unconscious in limiting past choices.

Caroline's capacity to listen cleanly and clearly without layering her own judgement or interpretation is second to none. That kind of listening gives birth to powerfully shaped questions that guide the individual or group to discover their own best and transformative answers.

In addition, Caroline is an author and a sought after international speaker, She is considered by most to be inspiring, incandescent and incredibly wise. She greatly enjoys the idea that we live in a time when we are being challenged to be truly creative, to be courageous enough to invent the lives we would truly love living. Caroline is there doing the same with her life and supporting friends and clients alike in doing the same.
